

CURB PRICES MOVE WITH IRREGULARITY

Some Leading Issues Go Higher
on Light Demand and Oils
Lose Gains.

Selling which forced prices lower on Tuesday was not in evidence in yesterday's trading in curb securities and on a light demand prices for many of the leading issues moved forward easily. The general trend of the market, however, was irregular. Standard Oil shares were won early, but subsequently lost all of their improvement. General Asphalt common was the most active of the industrials and moved more than two points higher to within a small fraction of its recent high record, and the preferred shares sold at the highest price since last July.

The independent oil stocks were active, with a good demand for Royal Dutch Shell new stock, advancing it more than a point. Queen Oil was well bought following the report that the Texas Company purchased land adjoining the Queen property. The motor and war stocks were dull and showed no sign of more activity if profit in United Motors.

The bond trading was quiet and uninteresting. Price changes were irregular and small, with Wilson & Co. 6s declining to a new low level. Interborough Rapid Transit 5s sold to within a small fraction of absolute low.
